Bulger jurors excused for pets, other issues

Whitey trial. A panel of 18 jurors, including alternates, is expected to be finalized today.

One woman said she gets nervous and depressed. An older man said he suffered a heart attack two years ago. Another woman got emotional when she talked about caring for her dog, which does not have the use of its hind legs.

Those are some of the various reasons why more than a dozen potential jurors in the trial of James "Whitey" Bulger were excused from service yesterday.

Scores of people were called in for further questioning as jury selection continued for the trial of the alleged mob boss. Lawyers for both sides were allowed to ask follow-up questions after hundreds of potential jurors filled out questionnaires last week.

The first woman to be questioned yesterday sat down and immediately started speaking before the judge was able to ask her a question. She told the judge she gets nervous and depressed, receives unemployment and gets swelling in her legs. She was excused from service.

Another woman became emotional when she was asked about the hardship she put on her questionnaire. She said it would be difficult sitting on a jury for more than three months while also trying to care for her disabled dog.

After the woman left the room, both sides and the judge agreed to excuse her from service.

Whitey trial. Defense requests judge delay opening statements

Lawyers for alleged mob boss James "Whitey" Bulger filed a motion early Monday morning that seeks more evidence from the government and requests that Wednesday's scheduled opening statements be put on hold.

At issue are claims by the defense team that prosecution witness and former Bulger associate John Martorano has been actively involved in criminal activity since his release from jail and has been shielded from investigation by his handler.

Tobin Bridge tolls to go only electronic

MassDOT announced yesterday that plans are underway for the implementation of all-electronic tolling on the Tobin Bridge, a form of toll collection that saves drivers from both stopping and slowing down to pay their toll.

Beginning early in 2014, motorists will no longer have the option to stop at a toll booth and pay cash. MassDOT said the toll will increase safety and reduce greenhouse gas emissions by cutting congestion and time spent idling at the cash booth. METRO

Two auto shops shut after police find makeshift bedroom

City inspections. Neighbors had complained about illicit activity.

City inspectors recently shut down a pair of Dorchester auto body shops, including one after neighbors complained about prostitutes coming and going from a makeshift bedroom set up behind the building.

The shops, one on Dorchester Avenue and the other on Washington Street, were shut down after the Inspectional Services Department's Auto Shop Team conducted inspections that began June 1, ISD said yesterday.

Officials found violations including outdated permits and improper storage of flammable materials.

Also at the Dorchester Avenue shop, inspectors found a "makeshift sleeping quarters" in the rear of the property that was made up of a tarp, box spring and mattress. Neighbors had complained regarding prostitutes coming and going from the area, ISD said.

The defense said Snyder has Parkinson's disease, and treatment has increased his libido and decreased his impulse control. Bail was set at $10,000. METRO

ERIN BALDASSARI, METRO

The Rose Kennedy Greenway Conservancy will soon begin a three-year commitment to maintain Armenian Heritage Park, which opened between Faneuil Hall Marketplace and Christopher Columbus Park in May of 2012.

The park has brought two interactive designs surrounded by seating, brick paving and landscaping to the Greenway, which is Boston's only organically maintained public park. According to the Conservancy, the cultural space "celebrates those who have migrated to the Massachusetts' shores, contributing to the richness of American life and culture."

"Since our community first conceived of Armenian Heritage Park as our gift to the Commonwealth and the city, we have been focused on providing an engaging experience and green open park space of the highest quality," said James Kalustian, president of The Armenian Heritage Foundation.

"Having seen what an excellent job the Conservancy has done in maintaining those same standards of excellence on the Greenway, we are confident that the Conservancy will be the ideal maintenance partner for us."

According to Jesse Brackenbury, CEO of the Rose Kennedy Greenway Conservancy, the park's paved labyrinth has been popular, as has its split dodecahedron sculpture.

"We are looking forward to putting our best maintenance practices to work in the park so that people who come from near and far continue to enjoy the experience," said Brackenbury.

Even in Hong Kong, ex-CIA man may not escape US reach

Leaks. The NSA has requested a criminal probe as the Justice Department is in the initial stages of a criminal investigation.

Edward Snowden's decision to flee to Hong Kong as he prepared to expose the U.S. government's secret surveillance programs may not save him from prosecution due to an extradition treaty in force since 1998.

A 29-year-old former CIA employee, Snowden has identified himself as the person who gave the Guardian and the Washington Post classified documents about how the National Security Agency obtained data from U.S. phone and Internet companies.

While preparing his leaks, Snowden left Hawaii for Hong Kong on May 20 so he would be in a place that might be able to resist U.S. prosecution attempts, he told the Guardian.

"Mainland China does have significant restrictions on free speech, but the people of Hong Kong have a long tradition of protesting in the streets, making their views known," Snowden, a U.S. citizen, said in a video interview posted on the Guardian's website.

The United States and Hong Kong signed their extradition treaty in 1996, a year before the former British colony was returned to China. It allows for the exchange of criminal suspects in a formal process that may also involve the Chinese government. REUTERS

The leaker who revealed top secret U.S. surveillance programs says he hopes to find shelter in Iceland, but he may be disappointed by the reception from a new government seen as less keen than predecessors to attract exiles and Internet renegades.

Tech. Computer experts tie WikiLeaks soldier to database breach

Computer forensic experts testified yesterday that they traced a break-in to a secret U.S. government website to Pfc. Bradley Manning, charged with the biggest leak of classified files in the nation's history.

The testimony came as the court-martial of the U.S. soldier entered its second week. Manning is accused of providing more than 700,000 secret files to anti-secrecy website WikiLeaks while serving in Iraq in 2009 and 2010.

He faces 21 charges, including aiding the enemy, and could face life in prison without parole if convicted in the case, which has raised questions about the limits of openness and secrecy in the digital age.

Government witnesses told the court-martial that they had traced breaches of the U.S. government's secret Intelink intelligence database to Manning's user name and Internet Protocol address, a major step in proving that Manning orchestrated the release of documents including secret diplomatic cables. iTunes Radio.
The program will compete against Pandora, letting users customize by genre and personal taste.

Apple Inc. yesterday unveiled iTunes Radio, a free music streaming service that is a key part of overhauled mobile software.

The company called it the most revolutionary re-design of its operating system since the iPhone was introduced in 2007.

As Apple kicked off its annual conference in San Francisco for its developers, executives also showed off a new line of Mac computers, and said that updated Siri voice software used on the iPhone now incorporates Microsoft Corp.'s Bing search engine.

The service is free with ads across Apple's devices, including Apple TV. It is free of ads for subscribers to iTunes' Match, a digital content feature.

Called iOS 7, the smartphone and tablet platform redesigned by resident creative honcho Jonny Ive comes with a new edge-to-edge look that uses translucency to highlight underlying content, new typefaces and new icons. Apple plans to make iOS 7 available in the fall.

Kleiner Perkins venture capitalist Matt Murphy, who runs the firm's iFund, tweeted that the new iOS platform "Looks livelier, happier, approachable." REUTERS

World carbon emissions hit record high in 2012

Global. CO2 emissions rose by 1.4 percent to 31.6 billion tons, according to estimates from the Paris-based IEA.

China led a rise in global carbon dioxide emissions to a record high in 2012, more than offsetting falls in the United States and Europe, the International Energy Agency said yesterday.

China is the biggest emitter and made the largest contribution to the global rise, spewing out an additional 300 million tons. But the gain was one of the lowest China has seen in a decade, reflecting its efforts to adopt renewable sources and improve energy efficiency.

In the United States, a switch from coal to gas in power generation helped reduce emissions by 200 million tons, bringing the country back to the level of the mid-1990s.

Even though the use of coal increased in some European countries last year due to low prices, emissions in Europe declined by 50 million tons because of the economic slowdown, growth in renewables and emissions caps on industrial and power companies, the IEA said.

Japan's CO2 emissions increased by 70 million tons, as efforts to improve energy efficiency failed to offset increasing use of fossil fuels after the Fukushima nuclear accident in 2011. REUTERS

What Dad really wants to read

If you don't have time to golf or fish with your old man, you could at least get him a book about those things.

ALISON BOWEN

Still searching for a great Father's Day gift for Dad? Look no further than this list of books — whether he is a fishing fan or wants to bunker down in a transatlantic adventure, here are our parental picks.

For a transnational adventure

"TransAtlantic," a new novel from National Book Award winner Colum McCann, weaves a story detailing three different crossings across the Atlantic, from an Irish famine to a modern-day presidential visit from Barack Obama. The novel stars historical figures like Frederick Douglass alongside aviators attempting the first nonstop flight.

For golf laughs, and maybe tears

The new memoir "Loopers: A Caddy's Twenty Year Golf Odyssey" tracks decades of experiences. John Dunn worked at golf courses across the country, hitchhiking to fancy greens and at times making $500 a day in tips. The book isn't all laughs — it includes problems that plague caddies.

For a father-daughter relationship

In "The Entertainer: Movies, Magic and My Father's Twentieth Century," Margaret Talbot brings Hollywood stories and family legends together from the life of her father, actor Lyle Talbot.

For fans of fishing

Fishing books might be a classic dad gift, but get him a book tailored toward one specific type of fishing this time with "Why I Fly Fish" by Chris Santella. The author interviewed 25 different fishermen, and fly-fishing pros and celebrities like Henry Winkler share personal reasons for the pursuit.

For a new take on old history

Taking an underwater view of World War II, in "The War Below: The Story of Three Submarines That Battled Japan," James Scott describes a submarine force that destroyed a Japanese fleet. Tales include an undersea appendectomy with kitchen utensils. This is a fresh story for WWII fans.

Have passport (but not cash), will travel

Get the cheapest flight
"Go toward the shoulder of a season," Pikovsky says. "You don't necessarily want to go at the height of a season, and you might not necessarily go at the off point, but somewhere that's toward the end or a little bit early on in the height of the season, you'll find discounted airfare."

Destinations. Short on dough? Consider checking out one of these under-the-radar spots.

"Traveling shouldn't be reserved for people who are affluent," says Freddie Pikovsky, an editor at the travel blog Off Track Planet and co-author of "Off Track Planet's Travel Guide for the Young, Sexy, and Broke." His book is a frank guide for the ramen eaters among us, and we mean frank — think Greece's best hookup spots; avoiding narcs in Thailand.

Not all of us can afford that five-star hotel, so we asked Pikovsky for some trip ideas that won't break the bank.

Freddie Pikovsky and Anna Starostinetskaya wrote "Off Track Planet's Travel Guide for the Young, Sexy, and Broke." / PROVIDED

Dream trip: Tokyo

No, really, go there

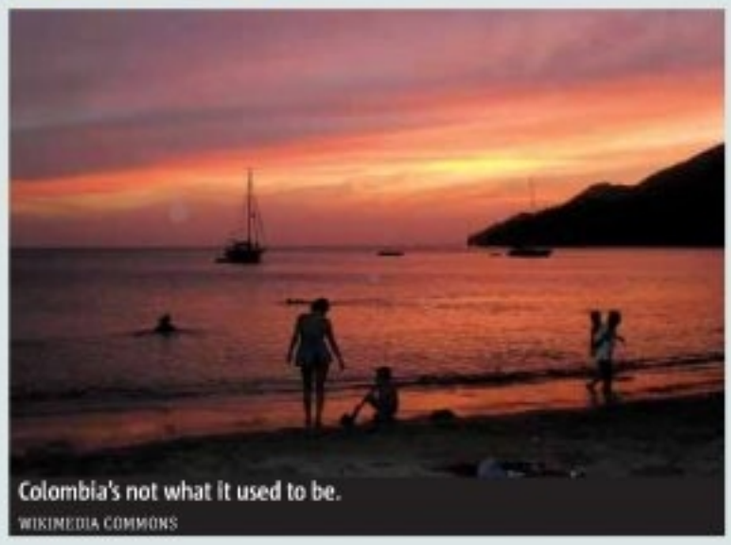
"Since the earthquake, they've been trying to promote tourism heavily," Pikovsky says. "I haven't personally been to Japan, [but] there are probably affordable options now for flying over there."

Dream trip: Australia



Colombia's not what it used to be.
WIKIMEDIA COMMONS

Try: Taganga, Colombia

The small fishing village of Taganga, Pikovsky says, is "one of the cheapest places in the world to get SCUBA-certified." It's cheap to stay in the area too, and it retains a lot of pre-commercialization. "The last time I was there, they didn't even have roads yet — it's still dirt roads," Pikovsky says. And we know what you're thinking — worried about being kidnapped? "Things have changed there so much," he says. "The guerrillas that were kidnapping people were decentralized by the government, so kidnapping is not as valuable a thing for them anymore." Other people's hesitation to visit means the crowds are few, and the luxury resorts are popping up — all of which means that now is a good time to go.

Dream trip: Amsterdam

Try: Vancouver, Canada

Another country that's going through a reputation shift is Amsterdam. Gone are the days of hitting a cafe for something to smoke: "They've actually changed their law, and it's now only for locals," Pikovsky says. He informs that Vancouver is the new "it" spot for cafe culture. "You can do basically everything that you were once able to do in Amsterdam as a tourist but can't do anymore."

Dream trip: Paris

Avenida 9 de Julio has seven lanes in each direction.
GETTY IMAGES

Try: Buenos Aires, Argentina

"The city is built almost like the Paris of South America," Pikovsky says. For your French fix, hit the neighborhood of Palermo, which resembles Paris and has "a lot of European influence," he says. Other sites to see: the Pink Palace (Argentina's version of the White House) and Avenida 9 de Julio — the widest avenue in the world.

No siblings? No problem

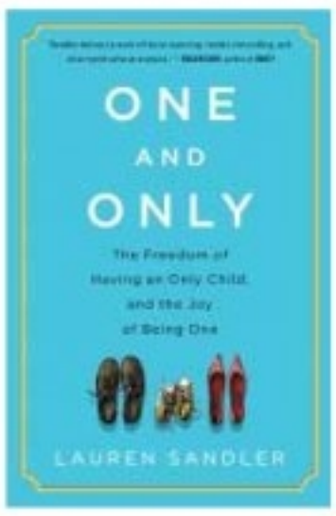
Nonfiction. Those stereotypes of only children? Totally untrue, reports Lauren Sandler.

Pity the poor only child. The eldest child is never stereotyped as spoiled; the youngest is never pigeonholed as maladjusted or lonely. Forget giving birth to a small army — it is when you say you are only having one child that eyebrows get raised.

Lauren Sandler is on a mission to change these misconceptions of onlies with her new book, "One and Only: The Freedom of Having an Only Child, and the Joy of Being One." Sandler, who is an only child and has an only child herself, found herself being a de facto proponent of stopping after one.



Author Lauren Sandler
JUSTIN LANE

"One day, I got an email from a friend that said, 'I'm pregnant with my second child, and I know how you feel about this.' And I thought, 'I don't know how I feel,'" recalls Sandler, a journalist who writes on cultural politics and women's issues. "Her comment sat with me in a funny way. Then, when I had my child and I was wrestling with what it would mean to not have another, I decided to report it out, like I do for everything."

What Sandler found was "stunning": "Hundreds of studies over decades found that our stereotype of lonely children is totally untrue," she says.

Filled with in-depth reporting (with some wry motherhood observations thrown in), "One and Only" lays it out there: If you decide to only have one child, you aren't "ruining" that child by deciding not to give [him or her] a brother or sister. You may just create a happier family life because of it.

Sandler is quick to note that she's not saying that having one is the best choice; only that it is a valid choice, and one that parents don't think they can make without seeming selfish or withholding. "If most people have their first kid for them, and their second kid for their first kid — which is what polls have consistently told us they do — what would it mean if they didn't feel like they had to?" she asks. "Don't have another kid just because you think you're gonna avoid screwing up your first kid if you do."

Research from "One and Only" by Lauren Sandler

The good news about only children:

- In 500 studies over the past several decades, examining 16 traits including leadership, maturity, extraversion, social participation, peer popularity, generosity, cooperativeness, flexibility, emotional stability and contentment, only children do just as well as siblings. In only two categories is there a marked difference between singletons and sibs: achievement motivation and self-esteem. And in those traits, onlies fare far better.

The increasing juggle of motherhood:

- Each child adds no less than 120 hours of housework a year.
- Women devote about 13 hours a week to childcare, up from about 10.5 hours nearly a half century ago. Meanwhile, the American workweek has increased by 13 hours.
- A single child decreases a mother's employment by about eight hours a week. A second child leads to a further reduction of about 12 hours (to a total of 20).
- Sixty percent of men say they are struggling with the demands of work and family.

The financial reality:

- A child born in 2011 will cost an average of $235,000 to raise to age 18.
- Two-parent households with two children devote more than a third of their income to their kids.

... and yet:

- About 76 percent of Americans told Gallup pollsters they thought that being an only child was a serious disadvantage in life.

Become a leader in business ethics and compliance

Business needs* and wants professionals who are trained in ethics and compliance issues. Our Master of Science in Business Ethics and Compliance (MBEC) is the nation's first—and totally online.

NECB is backed by 100 years of educating business professionals. We developed this degree in response to employer demand for leaders who can manage complex regulatory and compliance standards, as well as inspire a culture of ethical conduct.

Master of Science in Business Ethics and Compliance

Accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges (NEASC).

* O*NET Online, with data from U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, projects an average 14% growth in some compliance-related fields between now and 2020.

When it Comes to Education, NECB is All Business

NECB stays true to its century-old roots as a vital member of the business community, receiving endorsements from key industry leaders and employers.

New England College of Business and Finance (NECB) is different from most colleges: it's designed specifically for working adults seeking career advancement in the worlds of business and finance.

The 100-year old institution provides students with the specific skills and knowledge they need to meet modern business demands and take advantage of high-growth, high-demand job markets.

Accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges, NECB offers high-quality online degree programs at the graduate and undergraduate levels, as well as professional training for students interested in business and finance careers.

100-Year Foundation

Founded as the American Banking Institute in 1909, NECB has evolved to meet the demanding needs of business and finance employers. Over the years it has developed new programs to give students the opportunity to apply their new skills to their current jobs or use them as a springboard to advance their careers. Today, NECB is the only fully online college in New England.

Undergraduate and Graduate Programs

At the undergraduate level, NECB offers an Associate of Science in Business Administration (ASBA) Degree, a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration (BSBA) Degree, a Bachelor of Science in International Business (BSIB) and a Bachelor of Science in Digital Marketing (BSDM).

Graduate degree programs include a Master of Business Administration (MBA), a Master of Science in Finance (MSF), a Master of Science in Business Ethics and Compliance (MBE), a Master of Healthcare Management (MHM) and a Certificate of Advanced Graduate Study in Human Resource Management (CAGS-HRM). NECB also offers continuing education certificates in basic accounting, intermediate accounting and forensic accounting.

Strong Ties to the Corporate Community

Through the school's Corporate Partnership program, corporations are able to extend educational benefits to their employees at a discounted cost while ensuring that their workforce remains knowledgeable and up-to-date on industry trends. This has driven the cultivation of a strong roster of more than 200 corporate partners. In fact, over 70 percent of NECB students come from the school's partner companies, such as Rockland Trust, Bank of Aerica, Arbella Insurance and many others.

What Sets NECB Apart

What truly sets NECB apart from other online higher education options is the blend of high-quality learning experiences, coupled with exceptional student support services. For example, NECB offers comprehensive academic advising, 24/7 online tutoring, alumni and career services, library and research skills workshops and financial advising.

Through a more practical approach to higher education, NECB is helping position working adults for career success, providing students with the professional guidance they need to find a job or advance in their current position.

Don't Miss a Rewarding Summer at Boston University

Experience one of the largest summer study programs in the Northeast. Boston University Summer Term offers hundreds of undergraduate and graduate courses in a broad range of academic subjects. Summer 2 begins July 1—there is still time to enhance your professional credentials, broaden your career options, satisfy electives for a master's degree, or focus on a particular topic of interest.

Consider Summer Term for:

Professional Development: Whether your field is education, corporate finance, project management, or computer science, Summer Term is a great time to improve professional skills and learn new principles. Also look for business courses for non-business majors.

Foreign Languages: Summer 2 has classes in Ancient Greek, Arabic, Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Latin, Spanish, and Turkish.

Personal Enrichment: Exercise your imagination and intellect—enroll in Sounds of Poetry, an online course with former poet laureate Robert Pinsky, or explore a wide range of courses in theatre and performance, film and television, music, literature, art and architecture of Boston, and much more.

Unique Academic Focus: Choose from a thematic series of courses in areas of focus such as Boston Studies, business, music, pre-law, and pre-medical.

Pre-College Programs: BU also offers summer programs for high school students. Applications are still being accepted for Summer Challenge and Summer Preview, which include non-credit academic seminars and a range of fun social activities.

During Summer Term, you benefit from a condensed, six-week schedule—which includes convenient evening courses—allowing you to pursue your academic goals along with your usual summer activities. Summer Term's open enrollment policy means you simply register for the classes you want.

The Cambridge School of Culinary Arts Cooks Up Food for the Soul

On any given day at The Cambridge School of Culinary Arts, you might find military veterans crafting mushroom-stuffed ravioli or baking towering cheese soufflés. A former finance manager could be searing sea bass one kitchen away from an aspiring chocolatier perfecting her cappuccino-cream truffles. They come from different backgrounds, but all students at The CSCA gather with a common purpose: to feed their minds, to feed their bodies, and above all – to feed their souls.

Established in 1974 by Chef Roberta Dowling, The Cambridge School of Culinary Arts has welcomed thousands of students eager to pursue their passion for food. The curriculum at The CSCA focuses as much on an education of the senses as mastery of classical and contemporary techniques. Students are taught the importance of touch, sight, smell, and sound in every aspect of food and its preparation. This hands-on approach encourages students to discover both beauty and complexity within the wide-ranging world of food. At the core of every class at The CSCA is a commitment to the student experience, respect for culinary diversity, and, most importantly, the notion that food is a celebration of life.

Four unique courses of study allow students to choose a program that suits both their current lifestyle and future goals: the 37-week Professional Chef's and Professional Pastry programs, and the 16-week Culinary Certificate and Certificate Pastry programs. Each program is designed to accelerate the learning process through hands-on, practical experience, so students receive a top-notch culinary education in a manageable amount of time. A flexible day and evening schedule allows students to work full- or part-time while attending, and class size is limited to allow for individual attention from a talented staff of chef instructors. Upon graduation, The CSCA offers lifelong career placement services.

Graduates of The CSCA have gone on to become executive chefs, restaurateurs, food writers, caterers, private chefs, and food stylists. Alumni have appeared on the Food Network's Cupcake Wars and Throwdown with Bobby Flay, opened nationally acclaimed restaurants, and been named Food & Wine's Best New Chef, among other things.

In addition to culinary training programs, The CSCA offers an extensive recreational program designed to give amateur chefs hands-on experience in the world of specialty cooking. These one-time classes explore all corners of the diverse culinary landscape, from sushi rolling and Moroccan cuisine to grilling and barbeque.

The CSCA is currently accepting applications for all September 2013 programs, with classes beginning on September 4, 2013.

For more detailed information about these and many other program offerings, or to sign up for an information session on Thursday, June 20th at 6:00 PM, please visit www.cambridgeculinary.com or call 617.354.2020.

Horoscope

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20. Watch out for a hotshot salesperson with a dazzling pitch who will attempt to palm off what is clearly inferior merchandise. Don't let your guard down for one minute.

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22. Much give-and-take might be required between you and your one-and-only. A lack of consideration on your part would do great harm, with wounded feelings resulting.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22. If a friend who has been kind to you many times in the past is now in need of your support, don't disappear. It's time to step up.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Don't put needless strain on a good friendship by making too many unreasonable demands. If you're inconsiderate, you're likely to break up the relationship for good.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22. You may operate with great effectiveness in a competitive development, but your accomplishments will mean little if you use tactics that are dishonest or underhanded.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21. Surprisingly, someone who always endorses your ideas might be diametrically opposed to your way of thinking. Don't use compel compliance.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22-Dec. 21. If this should turn out to be a financially trying day, don't further aggravate the situation by yielding to extravagant inclinations.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan 20. Normally, you strive to be considerate with everyone you encounter. However, for some reason you might put your interests above all others.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21-Feb 18. It's not like you to fail to display proper gratitude to those who do you special favors, yet that might be the case today. Sadly, it could leave a scar.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20. Owing to an inability to accurately judge another's character, you could form a relationship with someone who has a questionable reputation. Don't make any permanent commitments.

Can't read the fine print

I have been avidly reading Metro for many years. There is one or two minor complaints I have with the new format though. One, I miss the weather forecast that used to be on the front page. Two, sometimes when there is white print on a green, yellow or similar background the print is very difficult to read. I have close to 20/20 vision and sometimes I can't discern a word from the side of, for instance, the Gossip section. It is getting kind of annoying. BRIAN MICHE, VIA EMAIL

GMO label system misleading

Re: What to know about GMOs (Metro, June 4) In the article, the sidebar, "Check the number," about GMO PLU codes on produce, is misleading. According to Internet rumor debunkers Snopes.com, the numbers are not necessarily accurate. They say they know of nobody who is currently using the five-digit number starting with eight on their GMO produce, and that retailers do not necessarily comply with this system. This seems to be another misleading Internet meme. IKE HULL, VIA EMAIL

What's wrong with love?

Re: The Sex Issue (Metro, May 31) I thought the sex issue was a fresh and new outlook for young and older couples alike. I can't see why others would have a negative and offended reaction to love making. JOSE ROMAN, VIA EMAIL

What's up, Doc?

Rivers' future still up in air

Celtics head coach Doc Rivers is taking longer than usual to decide if he will come back to Boston for another season. Reached by the Boston Globe this past Sunday night, Rivers wrote in a text message, "I'd rather not say," when asked where he was in his decision-making process. Rivers has three years remaining on his current contract. His decision could be linked to what the Celtics do with Paul Pierce. Boston has until June 30 to either buy out or retain Pierce.

Where does Tebow fit in?

NFL. The Patriots stunned the league yesterday by signing the former Jets and Broncos quarterback.

When the Jets traded for quarterback Tim Tebow in March 2012, many pundits laughed at the decision as it gave New York an instant quarterback controversy.

New York sports radio host Mike Francesca chimed, "The Jets want to avoid a circus and then they go and trade for one of the most popular human beings on the planet!?"

When the news broke yesterday that the Patriots had signed Tebow — arguably the biggest lightning rod in the NFL — it was met with more of a collective shrug by media and fans alike with most reaching the conclusion of, "Maybe it will work out, who knows?"

The question now turns to: Where will Tebow play for the Patriots? Here are a few options for where to utilize him:

Tight end
Tebow isn't exactly Jerry Rice in the route-running department, as evidenced by the play last year when Jets QB Mark Sanchez drilled Tebow in the back of the head with a football when the former Florida star attempted to run and out pattern. But Tebow, listed at 6-foot-3, 236 pounds, certainly has the frame.

Running back
For as much flak as Tebow catches these days — remember this: He was one of the greatest collegiate football players of all time and he did much of his damage with the Gators while running the football. In 2009, Tebow rushed for 910 yards and scored 14 touchdowns on 217 attempts while playing a rugged SEC schedule.

Quarterback
Tebow will never have a Dan Marino-like cannon. He'll never have Tom Brady's precision as a passer. But he has always proven to be a winner and a leader on the football field. But it is clear that Tebow needs to learn the intricacies of how to play the quarterback position, from the pocket, at the pro level. What better player in the NFL to learn from than Brady?

Patriots tight end Aaron Hernandez, who caught passes from Tim Tebow in college at Florida, hugs his former quarterback in January of 2012. / DENVER POST

Patriots sign Tebow

Tebow expected in Foxboro today

The Patriots reportedly signed Tim Tebow to a contract yesterday and the former Jets and Broncos quarterback is expected to be at Gillette Stadium today for the beginning of the team's minicamp. Tebow played sparingly for New York last season but had success with the Broncos in 2011. Denver upset Pittsburgh in the playoffs that season. METRO

COMING TO GRIPS WITH THE FACT THAT TEBOW DRAMA IS COMING TO TOWN

"Thoughts? — don't even have to add a subject"

"Tim Tebow … A Patriot????"

"Belichick knows trollin' only exists on the Internet, right?"

"WHYYYYYYYYY?!"

It has only been five minutes, yet I already have these four text messages about the news. It's a story that needs no actual introduction. His name is an alliteration, and he is coming to Foxboro — and not for a charity event.

Nope, he's here to try out for the local football team.

Worse, he was invited.

It's not that I'm against him, or his beliefs; it's the other stuff. The water coolers are particularly jovial, sports talk radio is beaming, and I'm left aghast, fighting to find the words for words to a column that I don't want to write. I'll be abundantly honest, dear reader, I'm not ready to join the conversation. Not yet, anyway.

Thirty seconds later, someone nearby actually uttered the words, "Brady is getting old." I snap. Surely, there is a successor to Tom Terrific, but not him. Not Tebow. I immediately get an eerie feeling, like Kate Hudson's character in "Almost Famous," named Penny Lane, will magically appear and excitedly squeal, "It's all happening!" Except we're not waiting for Stillwater, we're waiting for Tebow.

I've never been a sycophant, or subscribed to "In Bill We Trust." Blind faith, no pun intended, breeds irrationality. Publically, The Patriot Way, as an ideology, died when the team traded for Albert Haynesworth. But realistically, it never existed. Still, I am not sure how to react to this, mainly I because I don't want to react to this. Six minutes ago, I lived in a world. It was far from perfect, but Tebow was never part of it, or essential to it, beyond goofily looking at him as a straight-to-DVD Disney movie.

Because Tebow Time, meaning everything that comes along with The Signing — the attention, baggage, and polarization — is typically reserved for other franchises, in other cities, that wear the ugliest shade of green in the color's arsenal.

Time is moving but nothing is subsiding. Minute number seven is full of disappointment. There are seven steps to these sorts of events, and shock is still resonating.

I just want to be given a second to collect my bearings, but life never waits. I'm callously reminded of this truth as CBS confirms the original ESPN report, and, seamlessly, step two, "denial," is forgone — bypassed in another world, where Twitter and the 24/7 news cycle doesn't exist.

Exactly nine minutes after The Signing, I ask the natural follow-up: "What are they going to do with him?" The team will still win 13 games and be entrenched in The Conversation.

Still, here we are: Tim Tebow, Patriot.

Bedlam.

Bruins, Blackhawks both facing power play issues

NHL playoffs. Boston and Chicago have each had trouble lighting the lamp with the odds in their favor.

Not everything was pretty about the Bruins' four-game sweep over the Penguins.

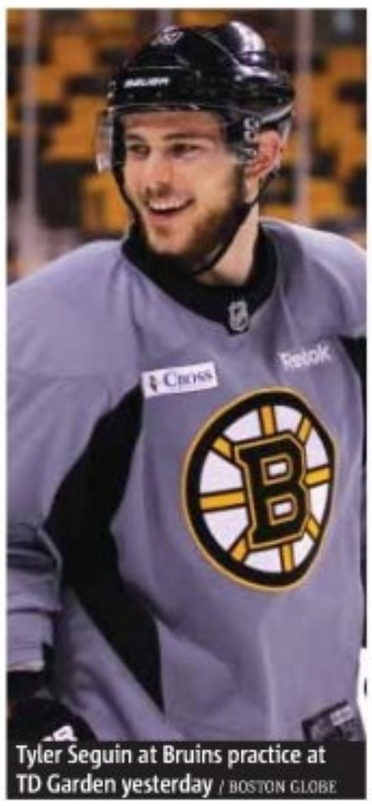
In fact, the biggest problem with the Bruins in the postseason is the same one they had on their way to the Cup two seasons ago (although they overcame it).

The B's are once again doing their part to cut power and reduce carbon pollution in our world — the power play is still weak.

Boston goes into the Stanley Cup ranked 10th out of all the playoff teams in power play percentage at 15.6 percent (7-for-45). It hasn't always been that bad, though. Going into the series against the Penguins, the B's were scoring on the PP at a 21.8 percent rate, but an 0-for-13 performance in the ECF ruined that.

The Bruins have gotten away with a weak power play — but then again, so have their Stanley Cup Finals opponents in the Blackhawks. In fact, Chicago's 13.7 percent (7-of-45) success rate is even worse than the B's, and places Chicago 12th out of 16 playoff teams.

But where both teams have struggled on the power play, they've shined on the penalty kill. The Bruins gave up five power-play goals in their opening round series against the Maple Leafs, but since then have given up only two goals (both to the Rangers) in 31 chances. They shut out a Penguins team that led the league in PP goals (13) heading into the series.



Tyler Seguin at Bruins practice at TD Garden yesterday / BOSTON GLOBE

"We knew [Pittsburgh] had such a good power play, that we had to be extremely good if we wanted to get a chance to win this series against their power play," Claude Julien told reporters after Game 4. "We made adjustments even after every game."

For the postseason, the B's are killing power plays 86.5 percent of the time (45-of-52), but over the last two series' that number grows to 93.5 percent (29-of-31). Even 93.5 percent doesn't match where Chicago's penalty kill is, however. The Blackhawks are No. 1 in the postseason on the PK, killing off a staggering 94.7 percent (54-of-57) of them.

Moving is the best medicine.
Keeping active and losing weight are just two of the ways that you can fight osteoarthritis pain. In fact, for every pound you lose, that's four pounds less pressure on each knee. For information on managing pain, go to fightarthritispain.org.
